To Whom This May Concern:

This is a letter of recommendation for Abraham (Abe) Brody, who worked under my supervision from early 1998 until I retired in December 2006. As a Manager with the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA), I was the Supervisor for the En-Route Navigation Chart Branch, Eastern Section, for all Aeronautical Instrumental Flight Regulated (IFR) products from my section. Mr. Brody was an Aeronautical Cartographer at this time.

Abe's main duties were the daily compilation and review of all aeronautical data received and verified from various sources within the FAA community, and from the private sector, that required portrayal on the charts and publications under his control.

At the mid-term evaluation point for Mr. Brody's first year of employment, under his journeyman status, I knew I had an asset cartographer in the making, especially with his knowledge of the automated systems the agency was moving towards. Understanding the dimensional regulations in the U.S. National Airspace System (NAS) for the Federal Airway Route Structure, with its minimums and maximums altitude limits, is not an easy task for the average journeyman cartographer. Abe was eager and quick to conquer these unknown to him FAA regulations, and he adapted well.

As mentioned earlier, Mr. Brody became a valuable asset to the section in which he worked. Once he gained the added knowledge with the NAS coupled with his experience with the various computer automation systems, Abe flourished into a reliable Aeronautical Cartographer and in some situations provided input to his more tenured co-workers.

In short, I am pleased to offer my references for Abraham Brody towards any position in which he is qualified.

Respectfully submitted,

To Whom It May Concern:

I would like to recommend Abraham (Abe) Brody as a candidate for a position with your organization or office. For the past 15 years, I have been Abraham's direct supervisor for the Enroute Charting Team of AeroNav Products which is an office under the Federal Aviation Administration. Our office produces critical aeronautical instrument flight rule (IFR) Enroute charts for the FAA supporting the National Airspace System (NAS).

In addition to the production of Enroute Charts, Abe has been certified as an Aeronautical Information Specialist for the evaluation of airways and the creation of aeronautical data on these airways. This involved coordination and communication with flight check pilots, regional offices throughout the country, and other internal FAA offices.

Abe has a very instinctive aptitude in computer skills allowing him to quickly learn any new system or application, and he already possess many application proficiencies including MicroSoft Excel, Word, Bentley MicroStation, ArcGIS, Apple and many others. He showed tremendous initiative by developing an office webpage consolidating an enormous amount of important information regarding the production of our Enroute charts. This was a huge benefit to the team. He currently maintains this. He was also the sole POC and coordinator for the migration to the new OS Windows 7.

Abe has a remarkable work ethic willing to take on extra work even under high pressure situations. Abe is always willing to share his knowledge with coworker and he cheerfully agrees to train other employees when tasked to do so.

Abe has done an excellent job, and I do not hesitate to recommend him for any position in your organization. Do contact me if you have any further questions.

Sincerely,
Daniel Bryder

To whom it may concern,

I am writing this letter because my friend, Abraham Brody, asked me to provide a character reference on his behalf. I met Abe through a mutual friend when he and his wife, Stephanie, stayed at our farm in Spencer, MA for an extended visit. I have known Abe for many years, so I feel qualified to speak on his behalf in terms of his character.

Throughout the time I have known Abe, I have formed a very positive opinion of him. He is thoughtful, honest, and reliable, and I have always admired his intelligence and attention to detail. Abe and I are both interested in mapping and have used our GIS skills while working at the federal, state, and local community levels. He is considerate of others and is always willing to help with his creative ideas, which are not always limited by a figurative box.

Not only do I like Abe, I also have great respect for him. I felt honored when he asked me to provide this character reference and hope that the information provided helps you understand what an outstanding individual Abe really is. If I can be of further assistance, please call me at 508.736.4950 or contact me by email at Robsousa@icloud.com.
